

Essex Police

Roll out of Meesons Automated Glazed Screens

Background

Essex Police were looking for a flexible, easy to use, security glazed solution for their many stations across the county.

They needed a system that offered the transparency to allow visitors to the station to feel at ease but also a system that would protect their colleagues against attack.

Solution

Essex Police considered a number of options from fixed counter screens to automated glazed solutions and decided that although the fixed screen offered security, it created a barrier to their visitors. They needed a solution which offered the best of both worlds.

The Meesons automated glazed screens gave Essex Police the freedom to enhance their reception by creating an open counter environment, but at the touch of a button close the screen, either fully or partially, for the safety of their colleagues.

After being impressed by the aesthetics and functionality of the Meesons automated glazed screen they decided to implement the system at 20 sites across the county.

Results

As a result of the Meesons automated glazed screens being installed, officers working in Essex Police stations feel safer and more at ease with visitors.
